The beauty of Rodgers and Hammerstein's 'The Sound of Music' is that it is timeless. The musical has been mounted every decade since it gained popularity from the '50s onwards. That's half a century and at least two or three generations of audiences worldwide.

Who is the Danish furniture and interior designer who is considered one of the most influential in the 20th century designing such iconic chairs as the Stacking Chair and the Cone Chair?

He was born on Feb. 13, 1926 in [illegible] an [illegible] artist in Odense. He studied architecture at the Royal Danish Academy of Art in Copenhagen, graduating in 1951. During the first two years of his career 1950-1952, he worked at the architectural practice of [illegible], another Danish architect and furniture designer.

He then set off in his Volkswagen van in a bid to [illegible] to explore Europe and at the same time find possible [illegible]. He returned to Denmark not with contracts, but full of ideas, and soon landed his first major task, designing the interior of the [illegible] Inn. This introduces the Cone Chair which was placed in small red setting, [illegible].

During the sixties he continued his [illegible] approach. He designed furniture, lamps, textiles and exhibitions, [illegible] in the 1970 Cologne Furniture Fair, an [illegible].

He also became known for his innovative architectural proposals, including a collapsible house, the Cardboard House in 1957 and the Plastic House in 1960. At the end of the 1950s, his chair designs became much more unconventional, with no legs or discernible back... like the Cone Chair.

In 1960, he was the designer of the very first single form injection moulded plastic chair, the Stacking Chair or S chair, became his most famous and mass produced [illegible].

In the late 60s and early '70s, he experimented with designing wild environments, [illegible] and psychedelic interiors that were an ensemble of his curved furniture, wall upholstering, textiles and lighting. He is best known for the designing of a [illegible] interior, now a famous museum, [illegible]. He is well known for his innovative work for Der Spiegel, a well-known German publication in Hamburg.

His eccentric style, which was regarded by many as provocative, [illegible]. As an innovator he [illegible] for experiment and play, and [illegible] new shapes, new colours, new materials and new ways of [illegible] space were tested.

He departed from this world too early in 1998 but his designs live on in thousands and thousands of people and an [illegible] generation that is still discovering his magical world every day.

Last week's question:

Who is the [illegible] bringing [illegible] to Australia with his [illegible] restaurant and cookbooks?

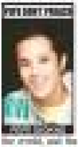
8 rules for staying creative



[illegible]

1. Control quality

"Good and fast won't be cheap. Good and cheap won't be fast. Cheap and fast won't be good."

- The Project Triangle

[illegible]

2. Take risks

"Often, you're the only one who believes in what you're doing. Don't give up if you meet some resistance. Once you're successful people listen to you more."

-Skype founder Niklas Zennström

[illegible]

3. Fail a little — or a lot

"An essential aspect of creativity is not being afraid to fail."

- Polaroid founder Edwin Land

[illegible]

4. Share

"Don't worry about people stealing an idea. If it's original, you will have to ram it down their throats."

- computing pioneer Howard H. Aiken

[illegible]

5. Compete with yourself

"You can't get ahead when only you're trying to get even."

- Anonymous

[illegible]

6. Inspire others

"If you want to build a ship, don't drum up people together to collect wood and don't assign them tasks and work, but rather teach them to long for the endless immensity of the sea."

- Antoine de Saint-Exupery, author, 'The Little Prince'

[illegible]

7. Face your problems

"If you have no critics you'll likely have no success."

- Malcolm X

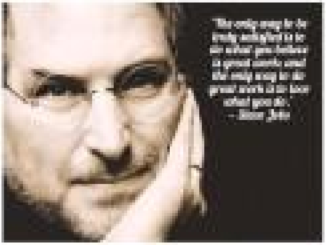
[illegible]

8. Smell the roses

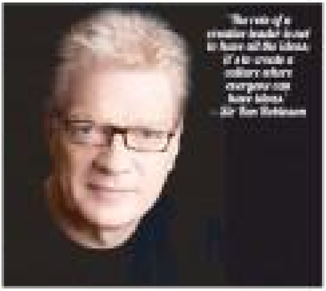
"Rivers know this: there is no hurry. We shall get there some day."

- Winnie the Pooh

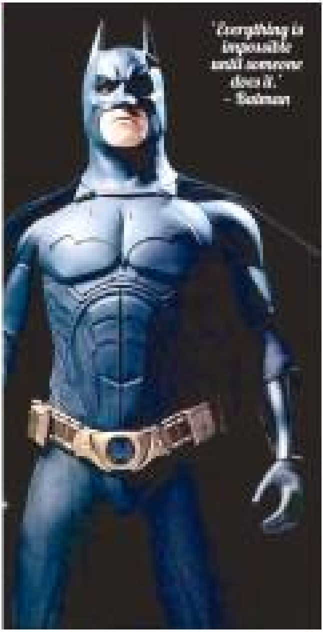
[illegible]



"The only way to be truly satisfied is to do what you believe is great work and the only way to do great work is to love what you do."
– Steve Jobs



"The role of a creative leader is not to have all the ideas; it's to create a culture where everyone can have ideas
– Sir Ken Robinson



"Everything is impossible until someone does it."
– Batman
